CLOSING LAW QUESTIONED

Cigar Men Object to Shutting Up
Stores at 6 O'Clock P. M.

Whether cigars and tobacco come under the classification of merchandise, is a question over which cigar and tobacco dealers are now much concerned, in view of the fact that on May 11th the 6 o'clock closing law passed by the last legislature becomes effective. The new law, while aimed primarily at department stores, may have other ramifications, not comprehended by its framers, and the possibility in this direction has been the subject of considerable discussion among those who may come within its scope should it be determined that cigars and tobacco come under the heading of merchandise.

At any rate the question is regarded as a vexatious one and one that may develop a controversy between the tobacco dealers and H. T. Haines, state commissioner of immigration and statistics. Mr. Haines regards tobacco as merchandise.

The requirement of the law is that mercantile and commercial houses, retail or wholesale, in cities of 10,000 or more population must close at 6 o'clock the evening of every business day of the year, except for the period of six days immediately preceding December 25th each year. Under this section no provision is made for closing on Sundays and in this connection it has been pointed out that cigar stands may remain open after 6 o'clock on Sundays.

May Bring Test Suit.

The act exempts commercial and mercantile houses that deal exclusively in or whose major portion of stock consists of foodstuffs, meats and other provisions of a perishable nature, which are regarded as public necessities. It also exempts the sale of drugs at any hour and is interpreted as placing no restriction on the sale of liquor, inasmuch as the liquor traffic is regulated by civil laws. Mr. Haines says some controversy may arise from the cigar dealers and that he believes it not improbable that a friendly test suit may be brought to determine the constitutionality of the act.

The expressions of cigar dealers who have studied the law indicate that a strenuous effort will be made to contest the constitutionality of the law if cigar stores and stands are ordered to keep closed after 6 o'clock. The chief arguments of the cigar men are that the enforcement of the law will throw many clerks out of employment and that its provisions are more harmful to the tobacco business than to other businesses which will be affected. The cigar men point out that a great part of their business is done after 6 o'clock, and that they rely on this business to insure them an average profit. Managers of hotels and drug store stands say enforcement of the law will mean that the business can be carried on with fewer clerks, which necessarily will mean cutting down the forces of cigar clerks.

It has been rumored that clothing store men in Commercial and E. Second South streets will complain if they are asked to close and if cigar stores are permitted to remain open. The clothing store men say they will hold also that a great part of their business is done after 6 o'clock every night and that the 6 o'clock closing law will mean a cutting down of the working force of the store.

PACKAGE OF BUTTER MUST
WEIGH SIXTEEN OUNCES

Under the new state food law, which became effective March 22d, a pound of butter must weigh sixteen ounces "stripped." Not even flimsy weight goes. When the last piece of waxed paper is off there must be a full sixteen ounces of butter. This is to be called to the attention of butter-makers by Heber C. Smith, state dairy and food commissioner. Also, every loaf of bread sold must bear the marked weight of the loaf, whether the bread is wrapped or not.

Commissioner Smith points out that bakers and butter-makers have had time enough to comply with the new law and adjust their operating methods to the requirements. Most of them have already complied, it is said. A few haven't. They will become the special objects of attention upon the part of Commissioner Smith.
